

Make a poster recommending a favourite book and put it in your window for others to spot.

Create a scene from a book in your house or garden.

Paint the name of your favourite book or author on a pebble and leave it for someone to find.

Write a letter to a friend pretending to be a character from a book.

Find a poem and turn it into a song to perform to your family.

In chalk, write a joke on the pavement or on a path in the park.

Invite your family to a story tea party in the garden.

Climb a hill and shout a story or poem to the world!

Read a book you've seen recommended on someone else's poster or pebble or on the school railings.

Make a string phone out of yoghurt pots and string and read a story down the line.

Find an interesting place to read and get a photo of you reading there.

Tie a book recommendation to the railings at the front of our school.

Look up the meaning of a new word you find when you're reading and drop it into 10 different conversations.

Phone a relative to tell them about a book you've been reading. Find out what they've been reading too.

The great Naunton Park Story Sharing challenge

Invent a board game based on books or a story you know well.

Leave a post it note on the fridge from a character in a book to another character.

Write a book review and send it to your teacher so they can spread the word.

Play charades - the players have to guess the book/story.

Act out a scene from a book to entertain your family.

Follow a recipe for something tasty and share it with your family.

Read a story to your pet - or the garden birds.

Build a den and invite someone from your family to bring a book to share in it (and snacks!).

The reading challenge:

We may not be able to all be together yet but we can share stories and that's what this term's challenge is about. Choose an idea a week for sharing stories/ideas/jokes and keep a record of what you've done on your recording sheet (this can be done in words, drawings, photos - you choose). At the end of term, send your sheet to your teacher for your chance to win a prize. Enjoy sharing!

Read to a grown-up by the light of the stars.

Find your favourite story or poem in The Book of Hopes and recommend it to a friend or relative.

Make a podcast about a story.

Make a bookmark for a friend recommending a favourite book.

Read a story out loud while lying on the grass.
